CLOSELY CONTESTED GAME IS TAKEN BY ROCHESTER HIGH

Costly Fumbles by Locals Mainly Responsible For Reverse

Saturday afternoon last at the local ball park in a closely contested game the gladiators representing the Rochester High school defeated the Charleroi High school football team by thesmall margin of seven points. The day was ideal for the game from a spectator's point of view, but it was a little warm for tht players However, in spite of the warm weather the game was bitterly contested all the way, and was not over until the whistle sounded on the final play.

Costly fumbles and what the locals acknowledge was poor generalship was mainly responsible for Charleroi's defeat. In spite of this condition, however, the C. H. S. players had plenty of grit and the resulting low score speaks for itself. Rochester has a strong team. and in fact had to have such a combination in order to overcome the spirit of the locals, who were fighting for the game until the last minute. Although it was a reverse, the first one of the season. the student body was loyal and cheered every man on the team

A large and enthusiastic crowd attended the game and the spirit shown was gratifying to every one. Wagner, Webster and Gray played a fine game for the locals, while Denton the visiting quarterback. was the mainstay for Rochester. The line-up:

MANY HORSES FOR EVENT AT PARK

About five car loads of horses arrived in Monongahela on Sunday and were taken to the race track on Park avenue, where speed events will be held on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Some fast steppers are among the horses now stabled at the park, and some exciting events are expected when the races take place on the dates scheduled. The track is in good condition and all that is now necessary is good weather.

COUNTY DETECTIVES RAID CLUB IN DONORA

Assistant District Attorney Warren S. Burchinal and County Detectives Laird and Weiner raided the Alliance Fraternal Association, a club located at 758 MceKan avenue, Donora, Saturday night last. The proprietor, Mike Zeveas, a Greek, was arrested and a considerable quantity of whiskey taken in the raid. The place, which has been running for over a year, has been under surveillance recently as an illegal joint.

Miss Helen E. Hill of the Indiana State Normal, spent Sunday with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hill.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY HELD AT ELLSWORTH

At the Young People's Rally which was held in the Presbyterian Church of Ellsworth, Friday evening. October 8, Rev. H. H Ryland presided and also led the devotional exercises. The Bentleyville Male Quartet gave two pleasing selections: Mrs Carr of Bentleyville favored with a piano solo and Miss McCleary of Ellsworth sang

The address of the evening was given by the Rev. S. Wilmer Beitler of the Presbyterian Church of Ingram, Pa. His text was taken from Hebrews 12:1-2. He discussed in part: too, the "faith Chapter," Hebrews 11, which he called the young people's chapter, a challenge to faith. Young people who engage in the service of the Master must throw off all weights, that is, give up things of the world just as the athlete who would win the race must not indulge in late hours, rich foods and nerve-sapping activities. He made the life of the young Christian very attractive.

The guests then adjourned to the Sunday School Room of the church where they were entertained in a delightful manner and were served reshmenss.

WILL GIVE LECTURE IN MASONIC TEMPLE

On account of the expected large attendance at the lecture on the Republican candidate and platform, to be given Tuesday evening by Congressman Temple. under the auspices of the Washington League of Women Voters, the place of the lecture has been changed from the public meeting room of the court house to the Masonic Temple. The lecture will be given at 8 o'clock and admission will be free.

This will be the first of a series of three lectures to be given before the election. The next ont, to be given by a woman speaker from Pittsburg, will deal with the Democratic party issues. The last one will have to do with balloting and the election laws.

Domestic Coal Situation Is Reaching An Acute Stage

It is predicted that unless the coal situation changes within the next few weeks there will be untold suffering right here in the Monongahela valley, one of the most productive coal fields in the Monongahela valley.

Many families in the different communities in this section of the valley are endeavoring to have coal mtn fill their bins in order to get a sufficient supply for the coming winter, but as long as conditions remain as they are it looks as if it will be a difficult matter to do. Coal is being quoted from $10.50 to $11.50 per ton at the mine for tidewater trade, and coal men naturally are taking advantage of a situation to make good profits while the demand is so urgent. However, for a domestic consumer to pay such a sum would mean fifty cents a bushel delivered, a price that is practically prohibitive.

It is said further that this condition is also accentuated by an order which has been issued by certain coal companies to furnish no coal for domestic purposes as long as cars are obtainable for shipment abroad. Thus thousands of tons are being shipped to distant points, while people at home are left without any supply.

Charleroi is endeavoring to overcome this situation, but so far no arrangement has meen announced whereby domestic consumers will be able to secure the necessary fuel supply for the coming winter, now only a few weeks away. Churches and schools will be as bad off as private families, for many of these institutions have been unable to secure any supplies during the past few months the season in which they usually lay in their winter fuel stock. It is a condition that must be relieved in order to prevent suffering when cold weather comes.

WOMEN NAMED AS READING CLERKS

Mrs. Virginia Waltz and Miss Martha Lawson. both of Washington, representing the Republican and Democratic parties respectively, are the first women in the county, since the suffrage amendment became effective, to be honored by an appointment of the court to an official position in connection with the general election on November 2nd.

Mrs. Waltz and Miss Lawson have been named reading clerks in the matter of the computation of the election returns of the general election and both have agreed to serve.

They, with Attorney John I. Carson and Attorney J. R. Irwin Knox. who will act as tally clerks, will assist the court in making the official count. The returns are to be computed by the court in court room No. 1, Judge J. A. McIlvaine presiding, beginning Thursday afternoon, November 4, at one o'clock. These assistants to the court will be swort in before the prothonotary prior to entering upon their new duties.

VISITING MINISTER SPEAKS AT CHAPEL

Rev. Roberts Williams. of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who supplied the pulpit o the First Presbyterian Church of this city. at both morning and evening services yesterday, gave an interesting talk to the pupils of the high school at the regular chapel exercises this morning. Rev. Mr. Williams.who was enlisted as a trackman in the 17th Engineers, one of the first bodies of troops to embark for France, and who subsequently served under Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is the first private to be promoted to a chaplaincy in the American army. His talk to the students was regarding four flag days he had experienced in the service, August 15. 1917, when the first American troops paraded in the City of London, Eng.; July 4, 1918, when he personally decorated the graves of quite a number of American casualties in France: the day of entry of American troops into Alsace-Lorraine. when the citizens of that district gave them such a wonderful welcome: and the last was his final glimpse of "Old Glory," which proudly floated from a German fortress, the day of his departure from the Rhine District, where he had been with the army of occupation The speaker was accorded rapt attention and his splendid talk was much enjoyed.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY SUGGESTS MAXIMUM PROFIT ON COAL SALES

QUEEN ESTHER CIRCLE HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Queen Esther Circle of the M. E. church held its regular meeting at the home of Misses Priscilla and Phyllis Murray of Fifth street, Friday evening. The leaders Misses Hazel Harford and Anna Watson discussed the topic, "Economic Factors" in a very impressive manner, after which a solo was rendered by Miss Edith Keys. Matters of further importance were than taken up by the president Mrs. Wesley Peters. Small mite boxes were given each member. the proceeds of which will go to Travelers Aid. An enjoyable social hour was spent and a delicious lunch was served by the hostsses.

HELD UP WHILE ON WAY TO WORK

P. T. McIlvried, of 807 Fallowfield avenue, while on his way to Monessen last night about 9 o'clock. was held up and robbed of some small change and his lunch. at the lower end of town. Mr. McIlvried had been at work during the day and returning home in the evening. was again on his way back to the steel mill to work last night. As he was passing a blacksmith shop some one reached out and grabbed him by the arm, turning him around and at the same time flashing a gun on him. The bandit asked McIlvried "what he had on him," and then in company with an accomplice proceeded to go through him. Fortunately Mr. McIlvried had but little more than a dollar in change on his person, which the robbers took, as well as his lunch and then told him to go back the way he came On arriving at home he called up the police and an investigation was made. but no trace of the hold-up men could be found.

CONTINUE INJUNCTION AGAINST HAYWOOD

Testimony was taken on Saturday in court at Waynesburg before Judge J. W. Ray, in the preliminary injunction restraining Peter Haywood from interfering with the work at the Crucible company's coal mine, at Crucible, by trying to keep men from accepting employment. The action was brought by the Crucible Fuel company. and the evidence showed that Peter Haywood had erected a sign on his premises which stated that there was a strike at the mine and that men should not work there. The testimony further showed that he approached men who were coming to the mine to get work and told them there was a strike on at the mine. There was no evidence to show that he had used any violence. The defendant did not testify. The matter will be argued later and the preliminary injunction was continued.

Says $1.25 Over All Costs Should Be Sufficient For Operators

8 PER CENT FOR COMMISSION

The federal grand jury at Huntington, W. Va., in a special report on the coal situation on Saturday, not only returned numerous indictments against West Virginia coal operators and selling agencies, but fixed $1.25 per ton as "reasonable" profit which operators may take above the actual cost of production.

The indictments were kept under seal and will not be disclosed until the judgment of the court has been rendered following arguments before the court of a petition for a restraining order against the office of the United States district attorney.

The special report of the jury in addition to defining a "reasonable" profit for operators declared a profit of 8 per cent by brokerage concerns to be a maximum reasonable selling charge by agencies and stipulated that in cases in which several brokerage concerns handled the same coal the commission of 8 per cent should be split.

The report assailing practicts which it declared the grand jury found to be followed by some Southern West Virginia companies, declares that the jury was "impressed by the strious abuses discovered in connection with the operation and conduct of the business of so-called selling agencies."

The grand jury report said that it had examined many witnesses and the books and records of many firms and corporations for the purposes of ascertaining a fair and reasonable rate and charge at which said producers and dealers can properly and legally handle such coal, and in view of the market situation which at present exists, the serious consequences which are likely to result from this market condition to both the public and operator, the grand jury felt that it was within its proper province and duty to present a finding that $1.25 a ton over and above tht actual cost of production on monthly output is the maximum profit that the coal producer is reasonably entitled to.

WHEN MEMBERS DISAGREE THE LEAGUE DECIDES

"One vitally important fact in connection with the League of Nations should be impressed upon the minds of all Americans who are in doubt whether the United States should become a member: One party to a contract cannot insist upon the right to determine the interpretation of the language of the contract," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., in the following statement issued today:

"Since President Wilson first made public the League of Nations covenant, he and others who advocate membership in the League by United States have undertaken to place their own interpretations upon various clauses of the covenant. They have asserted that the provisions of the League are perfectly clear—the covenant meaning exactly what they interpret it to mean. Over in Europe there are various statesmen who also believe the covenant perfectly clear but who place upon those same provisions of the document interpretations different from those rendered by President Wilson and his supporters. European diplomats are just as sure of their interpretations as President Wilson is of his.

"We have had a notable illustration of a difference of this kind. President Wilson has declared that the League of Nations covenant does not interfere with the Monroe Doctrine. After he had made this statement representatives of the British Government took occasion to assert a different view, apparently taking the precaution not to be bound even by interference by the interpretation which President Wilson has put upon that article of the Legue covenant which mentions the Monroe Doctrine The words of the British diplomats commenting upon the Monroe Doctrine were, 'Should any dispute as to the meaning of the latter ever arise between the American and European powers. the League is there to settle it.'

"That is an interpretation with which Japan will undoubtedly agree. Japan would like to secure a footing in Mexico. She would like to acquire territory to which her nationals could be sent and from which point they could be coveniently smuggled into the United States. She would like to secure a base for her naval operations as an aid to her prosecution of war in case she should become involved.

"But if Japan should undertake to secure a footing on the Western Hemisphere the attitude of America would be the same as though a similar course were pursued by a European nation. Our protest would be prompt and vehement and if the United States were free from any such obligations as are contained in tht League covenant there could be no doubt that our protest would be well founded. But it might be different—it certainly would be different—if we became members of the League of Nations and the interpretation expressed by the British diplomats should prevail. The British view is that 'the League is there to settle it,' and manifestly such would also be theview of Japan. Such also would be the view of Mexico if she had made a deal with Japan for the cession of part of her territory. Such also would be the view of other European nations that have for generations desired to secure territory in this part of the world.

"In the interpretation of the League covenant the United States would be outvoted on the question whether the League could settle questions arising under the Monroe Doctrine. 'The League is there to settle it' is the notice which Great Britain has served upon America. and every man who advocates making the United States a member of the League does so with full knowledge of the interpretation which other nations will place upon this phase of the covenant."

THE LEVITY OF WILLIAM II

The great war played havoc with practically all rulers "by Divine right," completely knocking the supports from under their pretensions. After-war revelations, continuing the process, have demolished whatever vestiges of the shaky foundations that still lingered. Tht former Kaiser, for example, must feel that there is indeed no one left to do him honor in these terrible times when lest majeste, or as he would say, majestaetsbedeogigung, is a continuous performance without let-up. It is not merely the critical or contemptuous observations of foreigners that he has to complain of. One prominent German after another in whom he once condescended to confide has handled him without gloves in newspaper interviews or published memories. The latest of many blows from such German sources comes in the form of the published "Experience" of Herr Erzberger, who, though he says he can not yet tell the whole story of his work in the Government and the Reichstag writes that he had frequent occasion to observe the Kaiser and was struck by his "extraordinary levity."

He gives examples of the former Kaiser's ignorance as well as of his flippancy, telling, for one thing, of his flighty talk to the Socialist members in July, 1917, about coming to terms with France—such terms as would be acceptable in Germany and impossible in France—and then leading the entire Continent in a war upon England! Testimony from many sources shows that in his reckless irresponsibility, William II led his diplomats and ministers generally a trying life. "This miserable Emperor of ours." Baron Holstein confessed privately to Sir Valentine Chirol as far back as 1908, "will either end in a madhouse or destroy our German empire." William II may not have believed in the "Divine right" of which he boasted, but he must have though that he had the world in a sling and could venture to play with it just as irresponsibly as a child may play with a ball or top.

A PERTINENT QUERY

Japan proposes to place the United States emigration question before the league of nations. In case of a decision of the matter adverse to the wishes of the people of California, they would like to know whether Mr. Cox will uphold the decision of the league of which we are not a member, or the attitude of the Californians. Will some one please ask Mr. Cox that question?

Cure for Egomania?

New light is thrown on the possibilities of amnesia by the experience recorded by a recent sufferer from it. It seems a professional man, discouraged by lack of money and worn out by working to increase his income, fell into a lapse of memory lasting some three months. When he recovered he found himself possessed of new clothes, a Liberty loan bond or two and several hundred dollars; in short he returned to his former sound mental condition much better off than before his amnesia experience. There is food for thought here. Perhaps amnesia by bringing a stay to too much self-consideration, too much brooding over personal rights and wrongs, too great egomania, might do a lot for certain people who make a major share of their own troubles Here is a man who, by forgetting all about himself for a time, has solved his difficulties. —Rochester Post-Express.

Gas Meter Is Accurate.

Put 100 of the best watches against 100 gas meters in a test for accuracy, expose to the same varying conditions of heat, cold, humidity and the meters will win out every time, says a bulletin. The gas meter is regarded as one of the most accurate measuring instruments in use today. Like the registering turnstile in parks, railroad stations and fair grounds, the meter will not operate unless something passes through it. The mechanism is not set in motion and the indicator hands cannot move except as gas passes through and makes them move. It is interesting to know that the original mechanical principles adopted in 1844 for the correct measurement of gas still persist and that while hundreds of inventors have endeavored to discover something better, they have improved upon details only.

A Mother's Maxim.

When Frederick Temple, the late archbishop of Canterbury, was a poor boy, wearing patched clothes and patched shoes, he had the good fortune to have a wise mother who stimulated and encouraged the right kind of ambition, and directed his zeal. One day the boy waxed critical over the inconsistency of English spelling, when his mother chided him gently. "Freddie don't argue; do your work." The lesson was not lost on his open mind. He followed the sage advice. And long years after, when as primate of all England he had arisen to a position scarcely second to any in dignity and influence in the land he acted on his mother's counsel: "Don't argue; do your work."—F. H. Cheley in "Stories for Talks to Boys."

The Chinchilla.

The chinchilla, the South American animal that produces the exquisite fur of the same name, has become exceedingly rare. The finest fur-bearing species, according to Country Life, inhabits the higher Andes, from the south of Chile to the north of Bolivia. Some years ago chinchillas were plentiful, but owing to the enormous demand for the fur and the reckless way in which the Indians killed them there are now few left. The Peruvian government has passed a law that prohibits for five years the killing of chinchillas and the exporting of their skins. The chinchilla is a rock squirrel, about the size and shape of a large guinea pig, but with large ears and a long bushy tail. The fur is of a clear gray, and is extremely thick and soft.—Youth's Companion.

"Switzerland of South Africa."

Basutoland is hill country and so pleasing in its general aspects that it has been called "the Switzerland of South Africa." One of the famous cascades there has a sheer fall of 600 feet. Seasons are clearly marked and the climate is invigorating, the annual mean temperature being about 60 degrees. In winter the climate is clear, cold and bracing and the hills are capped with snow; and the heat of summer is tempered by cool breezes. The dampness and fog characteristic of England are unknown in Basutoland and the sort of cold the visitors have met, while not marking extreme variation from temperature to which they are accustomed at home, has proved unarrow-searching to them.

Pie for 3,000 Persons.

In the village of Denby Vale, in Yorkshire, England, it has been the custom to celebrate any national event by the baking of an enormous Yorkshire pie for the villagers and those coming from all the countryside around. In 1788 the first pie was baked to celebrate the return to health of King George III; the second was made at the conclusion of peace between England and France in 1815; the last and largest of all was baked in the year 1887 for the Victoria jubilee. This enormous pie weighed two tons and cost about $1,200. The contents consisted of 600 pounds of beef, a whole calf, and a whole sheep, 650 potatoes and 600 pounds of flour. Fifteen thousand persons partook of it.

Misuse of Words.

The misuse of words in literature and ungovernable sensibility has become so general as to threaten the validity of all definitions. The connection between sign and thing signified has been so severed that it resembles the logic of that eminent master of argumentation of whom it was said "that his premises might be colored with the confluent smallpox without his conclusion being in any danger of catching it." Objects are distorted, relations disturbed, language put upon the rack to torment it into meaning, and the old composition seems like Tennyson's organizing "groaning for power"—Edwin Percy Whipple.

Skeletons.

The skeleton trade of the world is supplied mainly from Paris, where experts of incomparable skill in this line prepare the bony systems of all kinds of animals for museums and other purposes. Anything from a frog to a hippopotamus. For use by the student of comparative anatomy, the skeletons are mounted with the bones disjointed and separate, yet so wired together as to make a complete whole. Skulls dealt with in this way are taken to pieces by the simple device of filling them with dried peas, which are thereupon saturated with water. The swelling of the peas does the work more delicately than human hands could do it.

May Day in Scotland.

In Scotland May day was long known as Beltane. "Beltane" is a corruption of Baal Time, and the ancient May day ceremonies which were observed in Scotland until not so many years ago were survivals of the old Baal or fire worship, which in former days held sway over the greater part of the Eastern hemisphere. The ancient ceremonies involved the burning of bonfires, the drawing of lots for sacrifice, and even a mock simulacrum of the sacrifice itself.

Remarkable Menu.

A group of New Yorkers dined the other day on some curious dishes. They were octopus soup, rock cod from New Zealand, roast breast of penguin, peas from Argentina, sea elephant cutlets and salads made from endives grown in Tasmania. All the fish and meats served at the meal had been frozen two years before in the south seas and were brought north to show how great and how varied a food supply the temperate continent can furnish.—Youth's Companion.

Dimensions of a Million.

A way of realizing the meaning of a million, almost as good as counting chestnut blossoms, is to think of what it means in time. Few people realize that there are less than a million days in the whole Christian era; in fact, if we count back a million days from 1920 we come to a date well before the founding of Rome, while a million hours would take us back almost to the battle of Trafalgar.

MANY ITALIANS ARE SEEKING ADMISSION

Steamship men interested in the Italian trade estimate that there are about 3,000,000 persons in Italy, including a large number of American citizens, who want to come to the United States, but the facilities for transportation are so restricted that some of them may not get here until the latter part of next year. To help accommodate the multitudes six former transports have been leased from the Government by Phelps Bros. & Co., including the former German liner, President Grant.

The regular Italian line and the Fabre line's steamship have been jammed in the steerage for the past several months and in order to get their wives and children in on the same ship husbands and fathers have taken steerage quarters and brought the rest of the family over in second cabin.

SERMON ON THE PILGRIM FATHERS

In keeping with the observance in November of the "Landing of the Pilgroms," Rev. John R. Burson Sunday evening ante-dated the nation-wide observance by speaking on "Finding Greatness in Unexpected Places, or tht Discovery of Christopher Columbus."

There was a large congregation present and the address was listened to with wrapt attention. Rev. Burson spoke of the spirit of the world dreamers, and what we owe to them. How destiny had been lavish in her gifts to the poor of earth and had called so many leaders from remote places. He read a poem by Joaquin Miller in which the sailors are asking "Admiral" for directions, when always came the answer 'Sail on, sail on, and on." This is a Christian nation," said the speaker, "for the discoverer at once bowed the knee on the new land in thanks to Almighty God." The discoverer died at the premature age of 56, and died without knowing the real greatness of the land he had discovered.

SPRAYED POTATOES PAY BIG DIVIDENDS

That there is a decided difference in dollars and cents represented in the yield of sprayed and unsprayed potatoes was clearly but conclusively demonstrated in Fayette County last week when Farm Bureau representatives conducted test demonstrations on county farms. these demonstrations were conducted for the purpose of establishing the importance and value of spraying. This spraying is done every ten days during the growing season, and all but four rows were sprayed where demonstrations were being made.

On the Myers farm near Markleysburg, three acres of potatoes, sprayed five times, showed the following result: Sprayed, 207 1-2 bushels per acre; unsprayed 151 bushels per acre; cost of spraying $17; increase 56.12 per cent.

In Washington county demonstrations of a similar character have shown a profit of $300 per acre on sprayed potatoes, as against those which were unsprayed.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN OUTNUMBER DEMOCRATS

Complete figures for the registration of women voters for all districts of the county, except Monongahela, where personal registration is in effect, have been compiled. Tht figures show a total woman registration of 11,163 in the county.

The registry assessors of 105 of the 152 voting districts made the party enrollment list as well as the list of registered voters. The figures for the enrollment of women in parties shows the following: Republican, 3,826; Democrat, 1,207; Prohibition, 188; Socialist, 63. The figures also show that the party alignment of the women of the two old parties is about the same ratio as that of tht men voters in these parties.

DRESSES with the new removable

Patents Pending

"Doubles the wear, with half the care"

To look at them, you would think these dresses were like any others, except for being exceptionally smart in line and detail, and unusually well made.

But they have an added feature that appeals instantly to every particular woman—a lining made of extraordinary quality silk, that can be removed instantly for washing, and replaced just as easily

A patent long underarm piece of the same [illegible] does away with all danger of the lining showing when the wearer raises her arm

Are [illegible] dresses with "EVER-CLEAN [illegible]." They come in [illegible] and [illegible] styles, and in all the new materials and colors.

Moderately priced.

SPECIAL DRIVE FOR UNITED STATES NAVY

The Pittsburg Navy Recruiting men are pushing a Navy drive this next week. The special campaign is nation-wide to fill up the remaining vacancies in the ranks of enlisted personnel, by offering special inducements. 2,000 enlistments throughout the country are confidently expected, Pittsburg's quota is 35. More men than ever before are being taken in, all of the high standard necessary in the first line of defence. 9,368 men are today studying specialties in the Navy Schools and there is room for 4,700 more. Formerly the schools were for previous service men; whereas now recruits are taught there.

A new policy has also been developed so that those who like foreign travel will be given opportunities to see the world.

During the drive former navy men have the chance of selecting a new 35-knot destroyer for a European cruise.

The Navy school statistics show an average gain of 10 pounds in weight and increases in height and chest development for new men after 4 months training.

In its investigations of decay in wood, the United States forest products laboratory has found that "dry rot" is popularly understood to be decay in comparatively dry places, and in this sense the term may apply to all kinds of decay in wood. Though the different rot fungi may require various degrees of moisture, absolute dryness prevents their growth as completely as too much wet. What is specifically known as dry rot is produced by Merulius lachrymans, and this fungus infects timbers having a minimum of dampness. When well advanced, the infection causes the wood to become brown or yellowish, shrunken, and filled with cracks running crosswise and lengthwise, often with white masses of fungus showing in the cracks. The dry rot fungus chiefly attacks coniferous or soft woods, but is very destructive of timbers in buildings and logs in storage in the United States, Canada and Europe.

OPERATOR OF PADDLE GAMES LOSES $1,800

Dorsey Brand and wife of Morgantown, W. Va., were robbed of over $1,800 Friday night while sleeping in their automobile in a Waynesburg garage.

Brand and his wife had been at the Carmichaels fair, where he operated a paddle wheel game with blankets as prizes and had done a good business during the fair. Going to Waynesburg they stopped at a garage, expecting later to start for their home. Owing to the lateness of the hour they decided to spend the night in the car and curled up, one in each seat, for a night's rest. Some time during the night their grip, which contained the money, was lifted from the car, the thief making a clean getaway. Although the theft was reported to the police there is no clue of any sort on which to work.

SIX MONTHS I COULD NOT WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Me Strong and Able to Work—I Recommend It To All My Friends.

Bayonne, N. J.—"I had pains in back and legs so that I could not stand caused by female trouble. I felt so tired all the time, had bad headaches, and for six months I could not work. I was treated by a physician and took other remedies but got no relief. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me very much. I am well and strong and now able to do my work. I cannot thank you enough and I recommend your medicine to my friends who are sick."—Mrs. SUSIE SACATANSEY, 25 East 17th St., Bayonne, N. J.

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for over forty years, and today hold a record for such wonderful success as does Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.
